ORGANISATIONAL SKILLS

Organisational skills

- Good team-working skills, able to comply with any kind of team member, keep up with the pace of the co-workers and have good cooperation with them.
- Leadership abilities in productive environments and with the proper team.
- Being well organized in home, I inherited it in work as well, having it easy to sort and find my way on my organized space.
- Active student in the university, by participating in every event, conference and presentation as participator and organizer.-In high school I have been very active in every event by taking responsibility of the technic aspects of the event (music, lights, computer presentation, other technical details). There I also was responsible of the computers lab (where I organized a few meetings to start a Computers Club in school), the school Arts Center (supporting with the computer use), etc.
- I was an active member of W-CARP (World Collegiate Association in the Research of the Principles) since March 2011 participating in many workshops and trainings, worth mentioning was a training program on South Korea and this year a training in Romania, Slovenia and Switzerland. Also have been many times lider of different youth groups on some workshops organized by W-CARP.

COMMUNICATION AND INTERPERSONAL SKILLS

● Communication and interpersonal skills

-Good writing and blogging skills due to my previous job on AlbanianTech where I was content manager, and for a period of time I was the only writer there.

-I can find my way around social medias because of studying the feed algorithms of them, the main tags, most important posts, etc.

-Besides talking formally, I find it easy to adapt with all the latest trends of language, especially the informal trends that emerge in the internet and social networks.-I have a rich English vocabulary, and currently learning Korean language.
